

QUEEN AT SALT LAKE

She Receives at Old Beehive House.

FIFTY HAWAIIANS WERE ON HAND

President Smith of the Mormon Polygamists Welcomed Former Sovereign to Utah.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 24.—A dark-hued Kanaka woman entered the crowded Beehive house last evening and took her place in the long line that was waiting to greet ex-Queen Liliuokalani. She showed signs of impatience as the line moved sluggishly forward. A little girl of 10 years—her daughter—was at her side, and they pressed on hand in hand. Soon the woman stood face to face with the ex-queen—still her queen. The face of Liliuokalani lighted in recognition and a smile of greeting came to her lips. The woman bowed low, kissed the white-gloved hand, and then prostrated herself. The child also dropped to the floor. The queen lifted the woman gently. The crowd behind pressed on and the woman was forced to step to one side.

She shook with sobs. The little girl wept in sympathy with her mother.

Presently there was a break in the line, and the queen sat down. The woman pushed forward, threw herself on her knees, seized the queen's hand and covered it again and again with kisses. The child did the same. Mother and daughter remained at the feet of the queen, while the royal personage engaged the mother in kindly conversation, seeking to chase away the tears.

The woman was Mrs. Kealahoupaule. Years ago she was the queen's maid. Then came dethronement, followed by separation. Mrs. Kealahoupaule was converted before that time to Mormonism. She remained in Honolulu some time, although out of the queen's employ, and then came to Utah. She now lives at Murray. She had not seen her former mistress in years, and the reunion overcame her.

"I was glad to see my old servant again," said the queen, afterward. "She is still loyal to me. All my people are loyal to me."

ARRIVAL OF FORMER QUEEN.

Lydia Kamehaha Liliuokalani, former queen of the Hawaiian Islands, arrived in Salt Lake over the Rio Grande road yesterday afternoon. She was accompanied by her adopted children, Miss Myra Heleluhe, Dominis Atmako and Kapi Aea, and was met at Ogden by Abraham Fernandez and Mrs. Fernandez, with members of the reception committee. The party went direct to the Kenyon, where a suite of rooms had been reserved for her, and remained in seclusion until shortly before 8 o'clock, the hour for the reception at the Beehive house. Abraham Fernandez of Honolulu, who is at present in Salt Lake, had charge of the arrangements for the queen's welfare. With Henry P. Richards he escorted her to the Beehive house.

The Hawaiian flag formed a conspicuous feature of the decorations at the historic mansion. It was draped on one side of the front room, near the southeast corner, where the queen received. Beside her majesty stood Mrs. Fernandez, while behind were the queen's adopted children and Miss Fernandez.

The queen, who had no royal blood, would have been known as Mrs. John O. Dominis, a few days under 60 years of age. She is about medium height and inclined toward stoutness. Her hair is tinged with gray and her features of the strong Hawaiian type. She wore last night a rather plain dress and kept on her ostrich plumed hat while receiving. Although she surrounds herself with an air of hauteur and reserve, the former queen at times unbent and chatted pleasantly with different persons who came to meet her, especially with President Joseph F. Smith, who was able to converse with her in her native tongue.

HAWAIIANS STILL LOYAL.

Perhaps fifty natives of the Sandwich Islands were in attendance at the reception last evening, and they were given the first chance to greet the Queen. Some merely bowed low as they grasped her hand, while others stooped to kiss the white kid glove. Many gave expressions of love and loyalty, and two or three of the women wept

LIFE AMONG THE POLICE.

SAN FRANCISCO HAS HAD OVER FIFTY DEATHS FROM PLAGUE

The President of the Board of Health Raises His Voice Against the Suppression or Avoidance of the Truth.

(Special to the Advertiser.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—The San Francisco press will not acknowledge that bubonic plague ever did exist or does now exist in this city. The Board of Health says the plague is here. A few days ago Dr. J. M. Williamson, president of the Board of Health of San Francisco, read a paper before a convention against the admission of Chinese to this shore. Dr. Williamson referred to the presence of the bubonic plague, and said:

"Tuberculosis is not the only menace to the health of the State. Another disease has obtained a foothold among the Chinese. In mentioning it the writer is fully aware that his opinion may be received with disapproval by some who are present at this convention. He may invite again the attacks of the local press, and may incur the wrath of certain persons high in official station, but if he avoided the issue at this time he would be false to a profession of which he is a member, false to the oath he has taken as a public officer, and false to the citizenship represented in this convention. The fact cannot be passed without notice that for nearly two years an Oriental pest of deadly nature has existed in the Chinese quarter of San Francisco, and has been slowly but surely selecting its victims, until at the present time over fifty deaths from this disease are known to have occurred since March 6, 1900.

"There is no intention of reopening the contentious discussion which has waxed at intervals since the disease was first reported, but the assertion of certain facts connected with the subject may possibly be accepted in the spirit of belief as they are offered in the spirit of truth and sincerity.

"The records in the Health Office of San Francisco and corresponding data in possession of the United States Marine Hospital Service at Washington, show the case of pest which have been discovered between March 6, 1900, and November 4, 1901, to be grouped as follows: Chinese 42 cases, with 40 deaths; Japanese four cases with 3 deaths; and white six cases with five deaths.

"So bitter a contest has been waged in the matter of pest that the Federal government, through the Treasury Department, early in the present year, sent a commission to this coast, consisting of the leading bacteriologists in the country, men who possessed not only laboratory knowledge, but had studied the disease from personal observation in China and in India. They spent several weeks in San Francisco, and found seven cases of the pest. Their report was accepted as conclusive by the government, and their findings were issued by the Marine Hospital Service as an official bulletin. Incidentally, it can be mentioned that all the cases recorded by the Board of Health of this city have been verified by Federal officers, especially trained for the work, and many of the cases have been further investigated, with corroborative reports by leading medical authorities having none but a purely scientific interest.

"There has been a combined and partly successful effort on the part of certain State officials and metropolitan journals to smother the truth in this matter by loudly and repeatedly denying the existence of the disease and vilifying those who have admitted its presence. Notwithstanding these attempts at deception the facts remain unaltered.

"The failure of the State in the early stage of the controversy to accept the situation and deal with it promptly has done a vast amount of harm, and has caused its attitude to be looked upon with suspicion by other States and by foreign countries. Why did Mexico quarantine against California? Why did Texas, Louisiana and Colorado persist in quarantining against California? Passengers and freight, even after high State authorities had officially stated that pest was not present? They did it for the reason that the State Board of Health is in a position to place a political power and overreach itself, and had thereby become discredited.

"To a certain extent the State has since atoned for its error. At a time when the commercial fate of San Francisco and of California as well as trembling in the balance, partly by reason of the report of the Federal Commission, but principally by reason of the obstinate attitude assumed by prominent State officials, and the hostility manifested by the press toward investigation, the very men who by their pens had done the most to besmirch the reputation and impugn the veracity of any and all opposed to them, travelled to the national capital, with contrition in their hearts and promises to do better in their pockets.

"On the return of this delegation, which has since been termed the 'Special Health Commission,' it was announced that California was not quarantined and that San Francisco's Chinatown would be cleaned at the expense of the State. Is it not a matter of record that more than $2,000,000 have been drawn from the State Treasury for this purpose, and over 150 men employed in scrubbing and disinfecting the 'Chinese quarter'? Has not a cunningly worded report been issued, abounding in self-admiration, telling all that was done and furnishing the information that not a single case of the pest had been found during the three months of the process of purification, wherefore this is considered by the signers of the document as conclusive proof that pest had never existed? With all due respect to the gentlemen composing the special health commission, and with the fullest compassion for the State Board of Health, the San Francisco Board of Health cannot concur with them in their rosy decision, and regrets to mention that since the close of the State inspection, sixteen cases of the disease which now exists have been found in the infected districts.

"California cannot continue to pursue the ostrich policy, and cannot afford to ignore the presence of a disease by intentionally failing to find it."

FREDERICK O'BRIEN.

In their missionary work when I was on the throne, I believe that they do good. I have often met them on the islands when I have been traveling about, and have had very pleasant relations with them.

REGISTERED AS "HER MAJESTY."

The visit of the ex-queen was respectsible for the appearance of the words "her majesty" for the first time in the history of Salt Lake City in a local register. When the ill-fated emperor of Brazil visited this city he registered as "his majesty" at the old Walker House. The ex-queen registered at the Kenyon yesterday as follows:

"H. M. Queen Liliuokalani." There was no "ex" about that signature, although the members of her suite registered simply as "Miss" and "Mr." The hotel throng gathered about the register to note the signature, and more than one remarked there was something pathetic about the dignity with which the name was inscribed. The former queen of the Islands was seen by a few of the guests of the house, remaining within her suite when not in the hands of the reception committee, and partaking of her meals there.

SOFT, GLOSSY HAIR.

It Can Only Be Had Where There Is No Dandruff.

Any man or woman who wants soft, glossy hair must be free of dandruff, which causes falling hair. Since it has become known that dandruff is a germ disease the old hair preparations that were mostly scalp irritants have been abandoned and the public, barbers and doctors included have taken to using Newbro's Herpicide, the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ. E. Dodd, Dickinson, N. D., says: "Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp from dandruff and prevents the hair's falling out, but promotes a new growth. Herpicide keeps my hair very glossy."

WILL ATTEND SERVICE. The former queen will appear in public twice today. She will attend the services at the tabernacle, and will remain for the organ recital at 4:15 o'clock. Professor McCallister, assisted by Mr. Goddard, will render the following program:

Tannhauser March. Wagner (a) "Mignon Gavotte." Thomas (b) "Hymn of the Nuns." Wey (c) "Pilgrims Song of Hope." Lemke (d) "Capriccio." (e) "Cradle Song." (f) "Male Quartet." (g) "Haber-Griener." (h) "Hosanna." Mr. Goddard. Introduction to act 3, "Lohengrin." Wagner. Doxology.

Monday forenoon, if the weather is pleasant, the royal party will visit the lake, and in the evening will attend the recital of Miss Lulu Gates at the tabernacle. The plan is to depart Tuesday for New York.

"I am on my way to New York, and will then go to Washington," said the ex-queen last evening. "The question of giving me my rights in connection with the crown lands may come up, but that is not the reason I am going to Washington. I have come to look upon Washington almost as one of my homes."

"I am pleased to be among the Mormon people. I used to encourage them in their missionary work when I was on the throne. I believe that they do good. I have often met them on the islands when I have been traveling about, and have had very pleasant relations with them."

"Honolulu is still my real home. Although they have taken my throne from me, I go and come as I like, and my people are loyal to me. I am as much a queen to them as I ever was."
